MADISON CAWEIN

A Tribute to The Dead Kentucky Post

—By Ulysses Grant Foote—

He sleeps,
Beneath the roses that entwine
The anchor; the wings columbine
Are poised; the lily's throat
In white and wide as if a note
New born, transcending all,
Were now about to call
The angel of the dawn
As rifted clouds are drawn.

He sleeps,
With flute close by his side;
Throughout the nation wide
Its notes now faintly die
As men and poets sigh.
Sad echoes through the fane
Arise and hail to rise again.
And lingering in crypt and nave
Are sobbing for the joys he gave.

He sleeps,
While evening shadows draping low
Leave but the day's pale afterglow;
Beyond the hill and fen the stars
Their vigils keep o'er fretting bars;
His soul's deep rest the Father wills
As quiet hour the gloaming fills,
And tears and prayers and memories
Search deep and vast infinities.

He sleeps,
Who all the range of nature knew,
And to her soul his flute was true,
From pipings of the thinnest note
To symphonies sublime that float
Beyond the ken of mortal man
To fourth dimension's utmost span,
To that where hold Eternity
Stands on the universal sea
To poise the suns that blaze and nod,
And cries for aye: "Tis God! 'Tis God!"

He sleeps,
Ab, yes, alas! He sleeps! He sleeps!
While vestal Muse his taper keeps.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

—The Mother's Favorite—
"I give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to my children when they have colds or coughs," writes Mrs. Verne Shaffer, Vandergrift, Pa. It always helps them and is far superior to any other cough medicine I have used. I advise anyone in need of such a medicine to give it a trial." For sale by ALL DEALERS.

A Testament—And Bread

The World's Sunday School Association is undertaking to collect a million nickels for a million Testaments for a million soldiers fighting in Europe.

The object would be a worthy one IF THE SOLDIERS WERE WITH OUT TESTAMENTS. But it is customary for governments to furnish Bibles and Testaments to their troops in the field, and it is more than likely the combatants in Europe are already supplied.

It is good to give within the limits of our resources.

But in giving for the collection of Testaments would it not be well to give yet another nickel for a loaf of bread.

Our country is just emerging from a period of financial depression which has left millions of people out of employment. This is so to a marked degree in the larger cities.

Thousands of these unfortunate people have used up their last pennies and ARE HUNGRY FOR BREAD. They have families dependent upon them, and they, too, are hungry for bread.

A million nickels will buy a million Testaments for a million soldiers in Europe.

And a million nickels will buy a million loaves of bread for a million hungry people in the United States. Why not add the second nickel.

Those million Testaments may save a good many souls.

And a million loaves of bread may save a good many lives!

By all means let us give a nickel for a Testament.

A Duke at Church.

There was a certain old duke who used to sit up in the left hand gallery, with his duchess, believing himself to be incor. One Sunday a too officious steward, on seeing the old nobleman take a back seat, hurried up to him and said, "Will not your grace have a better seat?"

"Come along, Maria!" said the old duke. "We're discovered!" And he immediately walked out with the duchess and never showed his face inside the church again.—London Tatler.
